

You can calculate the size of your tires by using this web link. Just input the information required by this useful tool and leave it to provide the right data. This is valuable information if you need to allow for the correct clearances when planning a wide rear tire conversion or if you need to work out fork lengths.